Transfer - inam lands endowed to Sri Anjaneyadevaru temple at Govindanahalli Kundur Hobli, Alur Sub Taluk - to Sri Rangaswamy temple at Maniganahalli.

SIR,

In forwarding herewith the vernacular records received with the Hassan Deputy Commissioner's letter No.C.715-32 dated 14th Mar 1933 (copy enclosed) on the above subject, I have the hon ur to state as follows:-

The Sri Anjaneyaswami temple at Govindanahalli is a village muzrai institution endowed with the marginally noted inam lands for its upkeep. The village is reported to be boomirak and the inam lands are stated to be lying fallow. Worship is also stated to have ceased in the temple.

	Jodi and cesses	15-1-0.

2. It is proposed to transfer the above inam lands for the upkeep of Sri Rangaswamy temple at Manigamahalli which is situated at a distance of ¾th of a mile from Govindanahalli. This latter institution is not endowed with any lands either sheeri or inam. Three archaks perform puja therein by turn by receiving 'Archapar Mirase' from the villagers. These archaks have given a statement before the Deputy Amildar on 10-3-33 agreeing to perform puja to the Sri Anjaneya also provided the idol is brought and consecrated in the temple of Sri Rangaswamy and the inam lands are left in their possession. The villagers of Maniganahalli are also all to instal the idol of Sri Anjaneya in the Sri Rangaswamy temple their own cost and get the pujas performed by the archaks. The local officers and the Deputy Commissioner recommend that the Sri Anjaneyadevaru temple at Govindanahalli may be declared defunct and its inam lands ordered to be --- transferred to the Sri Rangaswamy temple at Maniganahalli, subject to the condition that the villagers of Maniganahalli should instal the Sri Anjaneya deity in the temple of their village free of cost and get the necessary sevas performed by the - archaks and pay the Jodi and cesses due on the inam lands to Government. As there is no likelihood of resuscitating the Sri Anjaneya temple and the inam lands are lying fallow and as both the temples are situated in the same Taluk and --- belong to the same denomination, I request that sanction of Government may kindly be accorded to transfer the inam lands of the Anjaneya temple at Govindanahalli to the Sri Rangaswamy temple at Maniganahalli subject to the conditions proposed by the Deputy Commissioner.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Shivaramaiya

Muzrai Commissioner.

The Deputy Amildar now proposes the transfer of these lands for the upkeep of Sri Rangaswamy temple at Maniganahalli which is situated at a distance of about ½ of a mile from Govindanahalli which is only a private institution. It is also stated that Thirumalaya, son of Rangaiah, Venkatasiah, son of Doddiah and Thirumalaya, son of Puttaiah are performing pujas by turns in the temple at Maniganahalli at present by receiving 'Akkipadi Mirase' from the villagers. These archaks have given a statement before the Deputy Amildar on 10-2-33 agreeing to perform puja to the Sri Anjaneya also provided the idol is brought and consecrated in the temple of Sri Rangaswami and the inam lands are left in their possession etc. The villagers of Maniganahalli on enquiry have stated that they are prepared to instal the idol of Sri Anjaneya in the Sri Rangaswami temple at their own cost and get the pujas performed etc.
